

WHEN KILLED; WE WERE HURT IN V. & A. WRECK

A Belated Special Train
Dashes Down 75-Foot Embankment When Engine
Hits Loose Rail.

RELIEF TRAINS RUSH
TO SCENE OF WRECK

The Lives of More Than
One Hundred Passengers
Were Saved by Tree Stopping Cars.

Cartersville, Ga., December 19.—(Special).—Two streamers of the Western and Atlantic special train No. 93 were crushed to death beneath their engine as a broken iron was injured shortly before noon today when the train, speeding to make up 20 minutes lost time, dived the track and down a 75-foot embankment 1 mile from Cincinnati, Ga.

It was a most enormous pine tree which stood a short distance down the embankment and caught the passenger coaches and held them, more than one hundred passengers would very probably have been dashed to their death.
The dead, both white, are:
VINCE H. BENTON, fireman, of Atlanta.
P. W. BULL, driver, of Atlanta.

The injured, all white, are as follows:
J. A. Manning, engineer, of Atlanta, was returned to Atlanta.
W. M. Johnson, conductor, of Atlanta, has returned to Atlanta.
K. N. Sanders, express messenger, of Nashville, is in a hospital at Cartersville.
H. Y. Stephens, mail clerk, of Nashville, is in a hospital at Cartersville.
J. R. Aspin, mail clerk, of Atlanta,
is in a hospital at Cartersville.
H. P. Chastain, mail clerk, of Nashville, is in a hospital at Cartersville.
W. N. Elrod, mail clerk, of Chattanoogie, has returned to Chattanooga.
P. A. Cole, mail clerk, of Nashville,
is in a hospital at Cartersville.
L. B. McDaniel, mail clerk, of Nashville, is in a hospital at Cartersville.
Two negroes, were also injured and are being cared for in Atlanta.

It was reported at the hospital here last night that the injured are doing well and that all will recover.
The cause of the wreck is reported to have been a loose rail which struck when the engine thundered over it.
The engine leaped from the embankment before any of its crew had time to save themselves. Engineer Manning applied the emergency brakes, but too late.

The engine turned over when it left the top of the embankment, but righted itself and tumbled with the pilot car, which was about 25 feet from the tracks. Engineer Manning was thrown clear of his engine, which was crushed, rolled to the bottom of the embankment, where it was a complete wreck.

Five Tree Saves Train.
The car next to the engine was a stock car loaded with automobiles. The car lodged broadside against a giant pine tree a short distance from the tracks. The tree sustained the shock and resisted the impact of the rest of the train.

The next car was the mail car, which fetched up against the stock car, which was steeled, and did not crumple, but the shock was sufficient to put it into the hospital.
The baggage car, which was next, landed on its side and rolled over, and laying upon its side.
An automobile which followed the baggage car was a few feet from the train, and the driver, who was not injured, merely bounced off the rails. The driver of the train, consisting of an engine and two Pullmans, stuck to the rails.

Relief trains were rushed from both Atlanta and Cartersville.

ing the U. S. battleship Oregon, today

Defeat of the Austrians in of Revolt in Hungary.

London, December 19.—It is believed Berlin's celebration of a great German victory in Poland possibly was premature.
All that German headquarters have to report is that the German army is making slow progress.
The Russian official report tonight says engagements on the left bank of the Vistula have been nothing more than outposts. In these the Russians would seem to be making progress in holding the Germans, while the Russian main force was forming along the Baltic coast. The German attack is said to have been resulting in a series of small successes.

GERMANS CHECKED
AT THE VISTULA.
As was expected, the Germans attempted to cross the Vistula in an effort to outflank the Russians, but they were frustrated by the Russian artillery and by the nature of the ground.

Despite the desperate war situation in the north, the Russians continue operations in East Prussia and against Cracow, while in western Galicia they are taking positions along the Dniester river in an attempt to stop the flow of the Austro-German forces.

With the Germans strongly entrenched and the ground in bad condition, the allies' offensive movement in Belgium and France is making slow progress. At several points, however, the allies are making slow progress.

Woodall Tells an Interesting Anecdote of Henry W. Grady

While recounting the other day some of the incidents of his life, Henry W. Grady, and recalling to mind various notable of his citizenship who have contributed in large part to the progress and betterment of the city now enjoys, David R. Woodall, a groceryman of 115 Peachtree, related the following interesting anecdote concerning Henry W. Grady.

"Although a great man coping with affairs on a busy scale, Henry W. Grady was one of our exceptional persons who always had time to deal with small things quite effectively. I remember very distinctly being late when picked up by his home for lunch, and a strange, lost youngster.

"My father, J. D. Woodall, had come to the city to see Mr. Grady on business, and had brought me with him from our home in the country. While going about his various tasks, my father left me at Haine & Kinsler's, an old hardware firm on

"I soon grew tired of waiting, and although but six years old and a village chap at that, I strayed off into the streets to look about me. Although greatly confused by the bustle of the great city, I still kept the name of Henry W. Grady fixed in my mind. When finally discovered by a policeman, I was taken to the station and great editor of the Constitution. Not with an open street car approaching

"Mr. Grady took me to his home and entertained me during luncheon, but could not obtain from me my name. I kept repeating the name of W. W. Grady, the name of a preacher of the day. At length we discovered in an old album the picture of my older brother when he had been sent the editor since the boy born in the country.

"Mr. Grady quickly perceived my mistake and immediately called me into his study. He was in touch with my father, who was waiting the city for me. This serves to illustrate the broad human sympathy of a man who could both deal with the most important events and take an hour of his busy day to laugh over a picture book with a strange child who happened across his path."

CIRCLING BUZZARDS Lead to Discovery of Missing Man's Body.

Brunswick, Ga., December 19.—(Special.)—After searching parties had looked for his body for over a week, the remains of J. W. Crosby, the aged citizen who disappeared December 8, were found yesterday morning by a party who went out to make a last minute check.

Mr. Crosby left Brunswick on the morning of December 8 for a day's fishing trip some 2 miles from the city. He went alone in a small boat, and when he failed to return that night some anxiety was felt for his safety. The following day searching parties went to the spot where Mr. Crosby had been seen to fish, but which explains itself.

"Mr. Crosby quickly perceived my mistake and immediately called me into his study. He was in touch with my father, who was waiting the city for me. This serves to illustrate the broad human sympathy of a man who could both deal with the most important events and take an hour of his busy day to laugh over a picture book with a strange child who happened across his path."

The Florida of New York are said to be the most fertile of the war as there are no orders for stamps.

As soon as the matter was reported to him, he wrote a letter to the commissioner of internal revenue in Washington asking for an official ruling. Meanwhile, the decision of the district collector had been given to the press, and the county officers, who are required to qualify and make their bonds before January 1, were greatly exasperated over the question. Some of them had already tied their bonds without stamps and others were unable to secure stamps in their localities. The governor's office was flooded with inquiries from ordinary and other officers anxious to know what to do.

It was hoped that this would settle the matter at rest and relieve the county officers throughout the state of their anxiety. The collector of internal revenue in Atlanta, A. B. Black, however, put everything at sea again by stating that upon the authority of Mr. Howard, to make the answer he did. Mr. Black said that he had a treasury decision dated November 19, 1914, which specifically required bonds of sheriffs, clerks, county treasurers, etc., to be taxed.

However, Mr. Black received Saturday a telegram from Commissioner Osborn, which bore out the statement made to Governor Stanton by Congressman Howard.

The Florida of New York are said to be the most fertile of the war as there are no orders for stamps.

As soon as the matter was reported to him, he wrote a letter to the commissioner of internal revenue in Washington asking for an official ruling. Meanwhile, the decision of the district collector had been given to the press, and the county officers, who are required to qualify and make their bonds before January 1, were greatly exasperated over the question. Some of them had already tied their bonds without stamps and others were unable to secure stamps in their localities. The governor's office was flooded with inquiries from ordinary and other officers anxious to know what to do.

It was hoped that this would settle the matter at rest and relieve the county officers throughout the state of their anxiety. The collector of internal revenue in Atlanta, A. B. Black, however, put everything at sea again by stating that upon the authority of Mr. Howard, to make the answer he did. Mr. Black said that he had a treasury decision dated November 19, 1914, which specifically required bonds of sheriffs, clerks, county treasurers, etc., to be taxed.

However, Mr. Black received Saturday a telegram from Commissioner Osborn, which bore out the statement made to Governor Stanton by Congressman Howard.

"THE SPOILERS" RETURN TO THE GRAND THEATER

"David Copperfield" and Rex Beach's Great Romance Announced for This Week.

Because of the sensation created recently during the initial showing in Atlanta of "The Spoilers" by Rex Beach, the management of the Grand Theater, which put on the original production, has decided to heed the general demand for a return engagement of this remarkable film and will put on "The Spoilers" as the big holiday attraction at that popular playhouse. It will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday matinees and evenings this week at the Grand's standard prices, 25 cents for matinees and 50 cents in the evenings. This same production, in nine excitingly realistic reels, has for two months past been playing to capacity houses in Philadelphia, where motion picture patrons are being charged as high as 50 cents each for seats.

Coincident with this announcement by the Grand theater comes another of importance to motion picture patrons and to lovers of the immortal Dickens. Tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday matinees and evenings will be shown for the first time, the masterpiece of Charles Dickens—"David Copperfield," in seven reels. Here is an opportunity to get an insight into the real character of young David, of Miss Wetherby, old Aunt Peggoty, the famous characters of this great Dickens novel. The settings were all made in England, in the very neighborhoods of Vauxhall, and Salem and at Canterbury, which Dickens immortalized. The costumes are all true to life and every phase of the great novel has been visualized in this truly remarkable film.

Rex Beach's great American romance, "The Spoilers," indicates that fiction may have a higher aim than that for a production to tell a gripping story, he has reflected certain phases of civilization and the human condition in this country as the last of the great "gold rush" pictures. The picture is a masterpiece of technique and realism, commencing with the Spanish invasion and the continued mining of the gold fields, the picture is a journey over the plains in 1849 and the tale of the gold fields, the picture is a journey over the plains in 1849 and the tale of the gold fields, the picture is a journey over the plains in 1849 and the tale of the gold fields.

It may be recalled in the book that the miners, to rebuke the lawless Indians who had sought to take advantage of the situation, to obtain control of the famous mines, the picture is a journey over the plains in 1849 and the tale of the gold fields, the picture is a journey over the plains in 1849 and the tale of the gold fields, the picture is a journey over the plains in 1849 and the tale of the gold fields.

There isn't a moment in the entire play just as there isn't one in the book. The picture is a journey over the plains in 1849 and the tale of the gold fields, the picture is a journey over the plains in 1849 and the tale of the gold fields, the picture is a journey over the plains in 1849 and the tale of the gold fields.

Will present every child attending the theater with a novel Christmas Souvenir Toy. We want every little boy and girl in Atlanta to come and—SEE US 5c ALWAYS 5c

WILLIAM FARNUM IN "SIGN OF THE CROSS"

William Farnum, the prominent American star, and an exceptionally able supporting company, including Agnes Ayre, are presenting in the Famous Players Film company's mammoth five-part production, "The Sign of the Cross," the paramount feature at the Montgomery on Monday and Tuesday.

The note of solemn reality that pervades the story, the gentle maiden martyr's last moments on earth and the atmosphere of unspeakable purity, simplicity and faith which dominate the crucial scenes of the drama, make the subject one of the tenderest portraiture of a noble story ever presented to the motion picture public.

The film makes a deep and abiding impression in the pictures of the dramatic construction of the Universal serial photo-play. His admirers who have read "The Land Claimers," "Across the Latitude," "The Man Who Came Back" and "Princess of St. Valley" are unanimous in their opinion that "The Master Key" for Harry Farnum is the greatest dramatic value he has ever presented.

The noble theme, the masterly handling, the reverence for sacred things, the solemn pathos, the tender symbolism, the classic reserve of the concluding scenes, have all been dwelt upon with generous eloquence by writers of every school and division of every church. It is felt that, as a work of art, of the true universality of Christian worship has been expressed with unimagined power.

The superb construction of the plot, the immense numbers that throng the scenes, the continuous flow of the emotions, the sympathy with which the evil-doers are treated, have been delineated with a distinction which makes it one of the most important of the great character-actors of the world.

Joseph Gollomb.
In the picture "Only a Miller's Daughter," a brilliant character actor, Joseph Gollomb, for the office scene, in the equitable which the story called for the typewriter was accidentally dropped on the floor, which resulted in its being returned to the scenario writer. Gollomb, who has endeavored to see his feelings are slightly damaged.

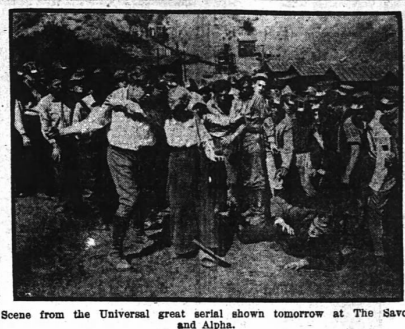

Mary Fuller.
Mary Fuller has no fear of the chilling blasts which sweep the summit of the Palisades, and she proved this the other day, when she stood before a rocky bluff clad in a very flimsy garment of leaves and grass, while the camera clicked coldly. The scene was a vision in which she was supposed to see herself back in the "olden times" when she was a girl in the garb in the scanty clothing of the cave man, shivered beside.

An Innovation Planned by Manager Fowler for This Coming Week.

And now Al Fowler, manager of the Alpha, has caught the Christmas spirit. He started the Ball-a-rolling last night by acting as host to all his friends and fellow moving picture employers and employees at a little party given at the Alpha.

This week is going to be a great week for the "kiddies." Every boy or girl who attends the theater during the week will be presented free with a pretty souvenir Christmas toy. tin and Mr. Charles Craft Thursday afternoon was one of much local interest.

Reverend M. D. Whitaker, of Dublin,

on account of the serious illness of the groom's brother, the wedding was very quiet. The bride was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A.

Ward, and has won for herself, by an irrepressible disposition, quite a large circle of friends. The bride wore a gown of blue and white, and the groom was in a suit of blue and white. The wedding was a very successful business man of Bunington, and after a week's stay in Florida, they will make their home with Mrs. R. A. Martin.

The Christmas Spirit

Within th' enameled ward the children wait. And then a hush, for down the shining aisles Their little voices rise in piping hums. With all his gay surprise dear Christmas comes,
Dear Christmas with his candles all alight

Atlanta Federation of Trades Will Wage Vigorous Campaign For Free School Books in City

The question of providing free school books to the children in Atlanta's public schools will be taken up vigorously at a meeting of the executive board of the Atlanta Federation of Trades Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The officers and members of the federation intend to wage an active campaign, and are determined to push it through to a successful conclusion.

The following strong card relative to the subject, comes from S. H. Marks, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor:

Card from S. H. Marks.

Editor Constitution: The Constitution, recognizing the inadequacy of the public school system, has advocated and urged a bond issue to relieve the lived of buying books every year for their children, and there is no better opportunity than now to give the people an opportunity of expressing themselves on this important subject.

Nashville, Tenn., and Birmingham, Ala., have free text-books, and the school attendance has increased wonderfully since the children have been supplied with free books. This is positive evidence that many children have been denied an education previously. Actual figures can be produced to prove this assertion, and it might also be said that the efficiency of the school system has been improved. If it is fair to have free tuition, then it is right to have free books. It is unjust to deny part of the children an education because of the poverty of their parents. An enlightened citizenry is an asset, and just as much as the children of the present day are the parents of tomorrow, we should not lose the opportunity available at this time to afford every child in our city an education.

According to newspaper reports of the meetings of the committee of council considering the advisability of a bond issue, there was $50,000 left over after all departments had been properly cared for, and this amount was thrown into the waterworks appropriation. If this amount was appropriated to the purchase of school books for children, beginning at the first grade and going through as many grades as

AUGUSTA TURNS DOWN PROHIBITION PLEA

Augusta, Ga., December 19.—(Special)—Augusta city council, despite the protests of some of the most prominent citizens, turned down the lengthy prohibition amendment to the city charter last night, seeking to reduce the city's revenue by the strict enforcement of the prohibition law.

The amendment, which would have brought the matter, although listening to William H. Barrett and Rev. Asby Jones in advocacy of law enforcement, while the city council, however, has announced that a campaign for Augusta law enforcement is being planned by the state organization.

The most move of the law enforcement people remains to be seen.

If the amendment were passed, it would be a real benefit to the people. If it is not to be passed upon a bond issue the people want to feel personally some benefit, and there is no better way to provide direct benefit than to relieve them of the burden of buying school books.

Joe Logan Describes Work Joint Agent of Churches Will Do for City's Poor

By Joseph Logan.

Secretary of the Associated Charities. Joe Logan, joint agent of the churches, has cut out one end of the hall on the seventh floor of the Gould building as an office for the joint agent of the churches, the Associated Charities in the Gould building were already being used to the limit of their space and he, J. Logan, the owner of the building, kindly permitted the use of the additional hall space without charge. Other tenants in the building generously consented to the arrangement.

The arrangement which has been made means the permanent home of the Associated Charities is of more than passing interest. It should be the beginning of a new development within our churches of the upbuilding service to those in need, superior to any which can now be given them.

Represents All Churches.

The agent of the churches who will be placed in the offices of the Associated Charities will represent all the churches who definitely agree among themselves to undertake this work of relief and rehabilitation of the poor. It will be her duty, as I understand it, to fix the responsibility for a given family upon the various churches. This will be governed by such considerations as first instance, as church membership, then neighborhood, etc., as may be determined by the committee of ministers who will direct their agent will work. The facilities of churches in workers and in money will, of course, have to be taken into consideration; and some churches may naturally be expected to do more than others.

Fixing responsibility, the joint worker is to see that the treatment is carried out along lines that have been planned by her in conjunction with the paid force of the Associated Charities and her committee of ministers.

Most of the notices which have appeared concerning this arrangement are in the line of "unworthy" and "unworthy" families need this help. The church as truly as those who have helped another who have done all they could to help themselves.

Work of what?

We professional charity workers do not believe in the words "worthy" and "unworthy" because "worthy" and "unworthy" are relative terms.

Francis Outmet Is Ranked First of Amateur Golfers; Evans Is Given Second Place

EDITOR'S NOTE—The following story of the leading amateur golfers of America, printed in The New York Sunday Tribune last Sunday, should be of particular interest to our readers in view of Francis Outmet and Chick Evans being ranked one and two in the list of the best players in the world.

Who are the country's leading amateur golfers? After nearly a year of competitive activity, beginning in the south last winter and ending with the recent Lakewood gathering, players have been continuously "showing their wares," so to speak, while their efforts in minor or local contests naturally call for certain consideration, it is really the national championship, to which the credit should turn their attention when seeking to set a class of the lot.

In the absence of an official list has long been the writer's annual custom to rate the players, preferring the names those who, in his judgment, are the first sixteen, judging by the way some rank to the front with selections. The selections are based solely on the championships. Frequently much of importance has been omitted from the United States Golf association affairs, which is one reason why this list never appears before December.

There are three who only consider the players from year to year, a plan which the writer has completely abandoned to the public, but while the hard to deal with satisfactorily, and in the event of his absence extending over a long period, say for two or three years, the last thing he would like to do is to leave out of one's calculations.

No Easy Victory
As a result of the outcome of the national championship, the championship tournament of form and substance, the writer has been confronted with a problem. In other words, Francis Outmet won the championship, but Charles W. Evans, Jr., the Western Golf association champion, captured the open crown. Had Evans might have been considered to tell, but as it is, Outmet unquestionably deserves the distinction of again heading the list.

Early in the season, Evans has a great record—last year winning the open and this year leading on both sides making a good showing at Mid-America, where he was ranked first in the championship, to say nothing of a number of minor tournaments. the reason for Travis more frequent references nowadays, an comparison of the part of younger golfers, and questioning the improvement theory. It also may be pointed out that the short game of the veteran is not so ready as formerly. Despite this, Travis still has a few more years in him putting has become more human. He can keep out of trouble better than most and when in difficulty there is no one who can tell him what to do, as he deserves fifth place.

A year ago on the list Warren K. Wood, then western champion, received fourth place. Wood has kept this fine player from defending his title and also from taking part in the national meeting at Lakewood. He likewise appeared rarely in competition anywhere, as at his game, according to advice at Lakewood, he is practically as good as dead. The writer does not hesitate to place a player who appears only on rare occasions.

On the other hand, Jack Neville, the California player, who is ranked first in the Pacific Northwest championship, stood his ground, and in the national championship, he was ranked second. THE BEST OF LIGHTWEIGHTS Suring Throng of Shoppers Getting Ready for Christmas Show Good Times Are Here

By James J. Corbett.

New York, December 19.—(Special.)—A "right fan" asks me to publish in this column my "rating" of the leading lightweights of the country. My correspondent, however, does not appreciate the amount of trouble I have to get into by attempting to make such a rating. He says that I am "too old" and "too fat" to do so, and that I should "go to bed" and "leave it to the boys." I am sorry to hear that, but I will do my best to do it.

There was many a happy heart and many a troubled one in that surging throng of shoppers that poured down town yesterday afternoon in a steady stream from noon until midnight. For Christmas has its tragedies as well as its joys.

There is the thin and shamed-faced bankrupt that is as small as the heart of its owner is big; the irresolute gift-buyer, who has a brand-new best gift; so new that he can't yet become acquainted with her tastes; to mix and mingle with that great throng of eager pursuers of the season's most joyous occupation, Christmas shopping.

Placing the leading boxers in order of weight, I would say that the first would be Willie, next would come Freddie, and then Young Saurer. Freddie is the best of the bunch, and he is the one who is the most popular. He is the one who is the most popular. He is the one who is the most popular.

There was many a happy heart and many a troubled one in that surging throng of shoppers that poured down town yesterday afternoon in a steady stream from noon until midnight. For Christmas has its tragedies as well as its joys.

There is the thin and shamed-faced bankrupt that is as small as the heart of its owner is big; the irresolute gift-buyer, who has a brand-new best gift; so new that he can't yet become acquainted with her tastes; to mix and mingle with that great throng of eager pursuers of the season's most joyous occupation, Christmas shopping.

Placing the leading boxers in order of weight, I would say that the first would be Willie, next would come Freddie, and then Young Saurer. Freddie is the best of the bunch, and he is the one who is the most popular. He is the one who is the most popular. He is the one who is the most popular.

THE BEST OF LIGHTWEIGHTS Suring Throng of Shoppers Getting Ready for Christmas Show Good Times Are Here

By James J. Corbett.

New York, December 19.—(Special.)—A "right fan" asks me to publish in this column my "rating" of the leading lightweights of the country. My correspondent, however, does not appreciate the amount of trouble I have to get into by attempting to make such a rating. He says that I am "too old" and "too fat" to do so, and that I should "go to bed" and "leave it to the boys." I am sorry to hear that, but I will do my best to do it.

There was many a happy heart and many a troubled one in that surging throng of shoppers that poured down town yesterday afternoon in a steady stream from noon until midnight. For Christmas has its tragedies as well as its joys.

PARTIAL RATE RELIEF GRANTED TO MOBILE

Certain Discriminations as to Export Cotton Are Ordered Corrected.

Washington, December 19.—Weight rates on shipments of export cotton to Mobile, Ala., from all points in the southeastern territory were ordered by the interstate commerce commission to be uniform, and the system of "monthly rates," requiring shippers to use the same rail line out of a compass point as to it was directed to be abandoned.

The rail lines interested in shore preference in the handling of shipments for those facilities. A terminal charge of 3 cents a hundred pounds on export cotton at Mobile was held to be reasonable.

All railroads serving Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida and the Carolinas were parties to the case. The New Orleans and Norfolk and the Carolina were ordered to give Mobile the same rate as to New Orleans.

The commission held that the testimony taken did not warrant a finding that Mobile was not a "natural" port, which requires that cotton shipped to or from Mobile be carried by rail.

While the terminal charge of 3 cents a hundred pounds on export cotton at Mobile was held to be reasonable, it was directed to be abandoned.

It was held that the "through bill of lading" was not a "natural" port, which requires that cotton shipped to or from Mobile be carried by rail.

The marshals who surrounded and supported the emperor of Napoleon form a remarkable exhibition of the productive power of democracy.

Although the emperor flattered himself that he made his marshals out of mud, these eagles really were hatched out of the fertile egg of the revolution. The republic not only gave them opportunity. Everyone of them already had won rank before serving under Napoleon, three among them being colonels, four brigadiers and one a chief of staff, in the army of the republic to the high distinction of division commander he became the fountain of honor.

All but five of that brilliant company were sons of the people and all but seven started at the bottom as common soldiers. Murat, the only one to rise from a peasant, was a cooper, Augereau, a mason, Lefebvre, an enlisted soldier, Masséna, a cooper and Ney, a brewer, Oudinot, a brewer, MacDonald, a butcher, Lannes, a poor mechanic, while Jourdan and Bessières were sons of country physicians.

Swart, Moncey and Brune of country lawyers or notaries, Drouot, a cooper, St. Cyr of little farmer. Berthier's father was an office holder of modest rank, and only the emperor's favor (Grouchy, Poniatowski) and Pérignon were of noble origin.

None but Davout, Marmon and St. Cyr ever had seen the inside of a military school. All except Berthier, Marmon, Davout, Marmon, Grouchy, Pérignon and Poniatowski were in the trade of war with the musket of a private.

BATONS IN KNAPSACKS.

Moreover, most of them rose from the ranks had enlisted from motives of patriotism in the enthusiasm of the revolution. When they entered the old royal army when service meant only the humdrum routine of barracks, they were being prompted by ambition to work their way up to officers. The Bourbons had adopted the rule that none but nobles were to be officers, and the commission and but for the fall of the monarchy all the glorious nobles would have remained to fame and fortune unknown.

Masséna was content to serve for 14 years and Bernadotte for nine years without rising above the rank of sergeant. In spite of a club foot, was accepted by the existing officers and well content with a sergeant's chevrons, Lannes ran away from a dyer to whom he had been apprenticed and went into the army, but was turned out as a person of insubordinate temper, while Oudinot, after two years of soldiering, preferred a life among his father's beer steins at home, on the other hand, he was to be a husar rather than the coal miner his family wanted him to be.

For the better part of twenty years Augereau was a wandering soldier of fortune, serving in the countries of France, Russia, Prussia and Naples. Money alone among those future marshals hidden in the ranks of the Louis army did win a captaincy, but only after twenty-three years of service, while Victor saw states and nearly sixteen years of service without a commission.

WHAT DEMOCRACY CAN DO.

The revolution came and the aristocratic front was blown off at a breath; the pressure of the new order on the army and merit creamed to the top. Privates were transformed into colonels and sergeants into generals in the month of campaigning. Every man quickly found his true level.

It was a wonderful example of what democracy can do. If the civil life of France had only been as democratic as the army was, the empire might never have risen. If the revolution had gone to the people for its leaders, as well as for its army leaders, if the people had been chosen as ready to civil as to military tasks, the republic might have been saved.

But while the republican armies under the leadership of men who had sprung from the ranks, the republic quering the martial aristocracy of Europe, the politicians of the revolutionary epoch were still ruling classes. The republic trampled the feeble anti selfish rule of ex-nobles, ex-military and lawyers. It was not the sword, but the statesman's pen, Napoleon that France needed and in-

MEDICAL

SURPRISINGLY EFFECTIVE

A wonderful medicine for building up a system that is in a run-down condition. Produces health and strength that will stay with you. YAAABAB TONIC gives the body something to seize on quickly to build from; just as the parched earth absorbs water, so the exhausted cells absorb YAAABAB TONIC. No woman whose nervous system is deranged and whose blood and circulation is poor can afford to neglect this condition—GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY. If it fails you are not the loser. GRIFFIN, GA.

A lovely event of Wednesday was the afternoon at which Mrs. William Barnes entertained thirty guests, among them the local party, the out-of-town guests, and a few outside guests complimentary to her sister, Miss Suzanne Grantland.

An enjoyed occasion of Wednesday evening was the possum hunt and supper given by Mr. Benton Grantland to his guests.

Mr. Robert W. Tilney entertained the bridal party at luncheon at the Hotel Griffin on Thursday.

One of the season's most beautiful weddings was that of Miss Sara Frances Garland and Mr. Walter Nolan Baker, of Atlanta, which took place Friday evening at 7 o'clock at the First Baptist church. Rev. J. E. Sims officiating. The church was elaborately and artistically decorated with palms, ferns, and white roses. Quantities of white tapers were burning on the altar, in the church and on the organ rail.

Miss Ruby Stevens of Stevens Point, Wis., was maid of honor. Mrs. Jesse Palmer, of Waynesboro, and Mrs. Henry J. Garland, mother of the bride, were matrons of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Kansas Baker, sister of the groom, of Fernandina, Fla.; Miss Mary Bask, of Griffin; Miss Zella Allen, of Ellenton; Miss Mary Davis, of Decatur; Miss Louise Johnson, of Atlanta; Little Misses Mary and Hammond and Fannie Willis Niles were the flower girls, and Edward Smith Crouch, the ring-bearer. The best man was Mr. Francis Baskland, of Raleigh, N. C., and the groomsmen were Ralph Wolfe, of Raleigh, N. C., and Neelitt Tilly of Atlanta.

After the bride entered the church with her father, the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Garland, where the wedding reception was held. The house was decorated with pink and white roses with the greenery of ferns and palms. A buffet supper was served. Assisting were Messdames Robert Strickland Lloyd (Cleveland), Leo Manley, Benjamin Brown, Elizabeth, of St. Helena, Nellie Head Grimley, Misses Martha Head, Opal Smith, Susannah Brown, Rose Kate Green, Ruth Powell, Laura Bailey, Lillian Scott, Rebecca Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Baker left later after having for a trip and will return in January.

Among the pleasant affairs of the past week was that at which Mrs. H. It was more of a social than a business meeting, although there were a few interesting papers read, after which dainty and delicious refreshments were served.

ROME, GA.

At the fortnightly session of the Music Lovers in Rome, Will Harben's studio, the study of the afternoon was Great Britain, and in the selections of vocal numbers, the theme of Christmas was introduced. Those who took part in this program of unusual interest were: Misses Lila Warner, Ellen Lowry, Virginia Gannett, Beulah Adkinson and Messdames T. W. Lipscomb, E. E. Yester, Winston and E. C. Hume.

Great regret is felt at the departure to Miami, Fla., of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Hume. Mr. Hume assumes a position with the Florida Granite and Marble company on January 1, but Mrs. Hume and little daughter will not join him for a month or more.

Mrs. B. I. Hughes, Wednesday afternoon, tendered a tea to fifty friends in honor of her niece, Mrs. R. O. Timmerman.

As Rome will be their future home, interest centers in the marriage of Miss Echo Corless, of LaGrange, and Dr. N. C. Dose, who recently became a Roman. The ceremony will be impressively solemnized in the home of the bride's parents in LaGrange, December 20.

An interesting event of Friday evening was the recital at the Christian church, in which Watson Ginn appeared in "The Man from Home," and Rev. E. A. Osborne and Mrs. T. W. Lipscomb assisted with delightful vocal selections.

Dr. and Mrs. William Walker entertained the board of deacons of the First Baptist church charmingly with a dinner party Thursday evening.

PROPERTY REPAIR CAMPAIGN OPENS

Chamber of Commerce Believes Plan Will Result in Expenditure of at Least $150,000 in Atlanta.

The Chamber of Commerce has begun a "Repair Now" campaign, which promises to be the means of putting a large number of men to work. Some days ago, at a real estate meeting called by Harris C. White, S. B. Turman made a talk, saying that a good deal could be done by hastening repairs on property.

An inquiry made Saturday by Walter G. Cooper, secretary of the chamber of commerce, showed that the repairs possible at the time on residences, which really needed the work, would mean at least $150,000.

Ed. H. Hayes, city building inspector, stated that at least forty per cent of dwellings in Atlanta needed repairs. Mr. Hayes thinks the repairs would average $15 a house.

S. B. Turman, who does a large real estate business and has had much experience with repairing, thinks one-fourth of the houses would need repairs and that the average cost would be at least $50. Either statement would mean an expenditure of $250,000.

These repairs ordinarily would be done in the course of the next six or eight months, but in most cases the work might be done now to good advantage at a considerable saving of money.

This situation was explained to Melvin H. Wilkinson, president of the chamber of commerce, who has appointed a committee, with S. B. Turman as chairman, to take up this matter and bring it directly to the attention of all home owners with a view to starting work on a large scale.

The committee is composed of the following gentlemen: S. B. Turman, chairman; Harris C. White, Thomas J. Hay, W. A. Foster, Montefiore Seligman, W. H. White.

Mr. Turman has accepted the chairmanship and has already been active. He has called a meeting of the committee in the chamber of commerce Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

With the work for the chamber of commerce and the "build now" campaign repair work for the chamber of commerce has attacked the problem of unemployment from three angles, the meantime the city and county have put it up from their standpoints and have put hundreds of men to work.

Mr. Turman's committee will send a letter to every property owner in the city, asking him to make his repairs at once. He thinks at least 25 per cent of the city will do this and thus probably furnish the work of work on a large scale within the next thirty to sixty days.

EJECTED FROM HOTEL.

Court Fails to Find Her Character Damaged.

Valdosta, Ga., December 19.—(Special.)—A verdict in favor of the defendant was rendered in the federal district court here today in the suit of Mrs. H. L. Cameron against Mrs. S. B. Pudge, a former hotel proprietor at Bainbridge. The case was one of the most sensational tried at this term of court.

Mrs. Cameron was ejected from the hotel of the defendant and brought suit for damages to her character. Many witnesses were summoned on both sides and the courtroom was thronged throughout the trial by curious crowds anxious to hear the sensational testimony introduced.

The case was first brought in the state courts, Mrs. Cameron moving to Canada and then instituting suit in the federal court.

BIG COTTON LOAN POOL.

Explained by MADDOX.

to put up 2 per cent of the loan as a guarantee fund and to cover the cost. However, it must be remembered that this $100,000, which has been authorized throughout the nation and is to be loaned in the south on cotton, and if cotton should decline below 8 cents a pound, the lending banks would have no authority to call for additional margin; and in banking circles a 2 per cent margin is not considered unreasonable. This is what the banks will have on the basis of cotton at 8 cents a pound, if they loan 2 cents a pound, it must also be remembered that 8 cents a pound is to be based on midling cotton. The differences to be allowed in this section, the differences to be allowed for grades above and below midling have not yet been determined, but a sub-committee in New York has this matter in charge and will probably fix the differences to be allowed very soon. No cotton, however, will be admitted for collateral which grades below midling. The differences between midling and low midling on the New York cotton exchange amount to 12 points, while the differences between the same grades in the New Orleans cotton exchange amount to 40 points.

The cotton exchange, the New York reserve banks having a 100 per cent margin since the plan for making this loan to the banks of the south was started, and the delay in getting subscriptions aggregating the minimum of $100,000, has been a material factor in the importance of the loan; and it remains to be seen whether the south is really in need of the loan.

How the Plan.

Under the plan, the merchant or farmer owning, say 100 bales of midling cotton, weighing 800 pounds each, would have cotton to be valued at $10.00. The cotton would be properly stored in a good warehouse and properly insured. A note would then be signed by the owner of the cotton for $2,000, the note to be given to the insurance policy and warehouse receipt, would have to be

MACON WILL PUT CITY TAX UPON LOCKER CLUBS

Macon, Ga., December 19.—(Special.)—Under a recent amendment to the charter of the city of Macon, passed by the legislature, locker clubs doing business in this city are placed under control of council, and can be subjected to a city as well as a state tax. The state requires a tax of $500, but the indications are that the city of Macon will hardly let them down so light, and there is now some talk of levying a tax of $1,500 from each club. Certain it is that the license will not be less than $500, while the majority of the aldermen are said to

HANK AND HIS ANIMAL FRIENDS By Walt McDougall

FOREIGN SECURITIES TECHNICAL REPORT

Small Amount of Liquidation of Stocks Held in America Checked Declines—Lack of Speculation in Wall Street.

New York, December 19.—(Special.) Foreign selling in rather large blocks has developed during the few days since open trading in all shares has been permitted on the floor of the New York stock exchange, but there has been no little liquidation of American held stocks that the selling from abroad has been easily absorbed. In common offerings of shares formerly held in Europe have been large enough to bring about slight declines in price, but the general tone of the whole market during the first week of open trading has been good. In many stocks, substantial advances have been secured. Some continue steady, average price of the whole bond lot having risen above the level of two weeks ago. The reason for the steadiness of stocks in the face of rather heavy selling from Europe, besides the lack of liquidation of American held stocks, is that there is actual evidence on the part of many investors to buy shares at the present prices.

Speculation of the sort which buys and sells shares repeatedly has been absent from the market so far, and so the total volume of movement, when it is considered that nearly every sale is taken up by the buyer and the stock is wanted, the business accomplished so far is not so great as it appears. Open trading in stocks is in the present quite important. There are reports in the press that position which show that strong bull cliques are in operation and it is from them that Wall Street is getting its life. If the volume of foreign selling does not increase, the market has already been established and a sharp advance all along the line is a few weeks away. On the other hand, however, that more foreign selling than has been witnessed in the past may retard and, though not prevent, the expected large advance. While the general feeling of the market has been quite bullish, due to the fact that prices are rising, and the increase in the price of the stock exchange is only a means to the end, there are some traders who look for a breakdown, and others who believe that they consider more or less probable of occurrence. Other reports are that there is an important victory for Germany, either on land or sea, in the European war. It is believed that such a victory would mean considerable selling in this market, and the position of American securities. So far, more of the selling from abroad has been limited to Continental securities, and to Great Britain.

Strength of Railroad Stocks.
Broad stock market has fairly strong belief that the interstate commerce commission will make a decision on the matter of the rate of the railroads, and the decision is considered a good sign in the industry. The market has been fairly steady in absolutely the same position as it was before closing on the 17th. The market has been fairly steady in absolutely the same position as it was before closing on the 17th. The market has been fairly steady in absolutely the same position as it was before closing on the 17th.

The condition of the whole financial market at the present time is good. Much weakness in the market has been averted, and the market has been fairly steady in absolutely the same position as it was before closing on the 17th.

Money and Exchange Markets.
The money market steadily less than at all other times in the past few days. Time loans for nearby markets have been made at a low rate, though that figure about represents the present rate of the market.

Foreign exchange has been quiet with little sterling and mark exchange. Sterling exchange has been at a figure close to normal for the better part of the last three or four weeks. The strength of mark exchange seen early in the present month has been averted, and the market has been fairly steady in absolutely the same position as it was before closing on the 17th.

DEMAND FROM TRADE AND INVESTMENT BUYERS ALSO CONTRIBUTED TO ADVANCE. Spot Cotton Quiet.

New York, December 19.—(Special.) The cotton market showed continued steadiness on covering for the week-end, and a moderate demand from business and investment buyers who evidently found very little cotton to be sold in the market. The close was slightly up from the last under the influence of the local market opening steady at a decline of 2 to 4 points under Saturday's closing.

Reports of a continued active demand for foreign cotton, and statements that Germany and Austria, in the latter case, were buying in large quantities, were not sufficient to bring about a sharp advance, while buying was also encouraged by the fact that the active demand for goods in the domestic market had been maintained. The amount of cotton on hand in the market was estimated at the close of business last night at 1,000,000 bales.

Private cables from Liverpool, replying to inquiries concerning yesterday's market, showed that the market was steady, with a slight advance in the price of the cotton. The market has been fairly steady in absolutely the same position as it was before closing on the 17th.

WILL PAY VISIT TO ATLANTA SOON

MISS SUSAN BRINKLEY, Of Boston, Mass., charming young cousin of General Bates, of Nashville, and granddaughter of Colonel Robert Brinkley, of Memphis, who is to be the guest of her cousin, Miss Lillian G. Carter, at her home on Kennesaw avenue.

In the Social Whirl

By Isma Dooly

The week-end festivities have included the married and unmarried people and have recorded on the social program a series of delightful entertainments. Distinctly beautiful was the tea-dance given Friday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Murphy in the ballroom of their Peachtree home. It was a compliment to the debutante. The honor guests were Miss Isoline Campbell, Miss Rosalie Davis and Miss Josephine Noble. They stood with Mrs. Murphy in the rose drawing room to receive the guests and with the receiving party was Miss Julia Murphy, the lovely young daughter of the household.

The ballroom was a veritable spring garden in the luxury of enchanting carnations used, baskets of pink roses, all in harmony with the mural decorations, which show garlands of roses against a pale pink background. The orchestra played inspiring dance music and the costumes of the guests were beautiful, the general fashion the dressy afternoon gown with hat to match.

Distinguished in her beauty was Mr. Albert Howell wearing an afternoon toilet of black velvet with pink and white. Mrs. William Bailey Lamar wore a brown chiffon gown combined with cream-colored lace. Miss Adrienne Battey wore a brown velvet and a velvet hat trimmed in shaded brown plumes.

WINTER TOILETS.

Miss Isabel Robinson wore a delicate blue crepe gown, the bodice of gold brocade and shades of blue, and her black picture hat was trimmed with brown velvet. Miss Dorothy High wore a dancing gown of yellow crepe accented in gold, the bodice of cream lace threaded in gold, and her black hat was trimmed with yellow plumes.

Miss Dorothy Arkwright was one of the loveliest of the young girls present. Her gown was a smart model of rose velvet, and her hand-colored bouffant hat was trimmed with French flowers. Miss Louise Brooker wore an attractive blue velvet gown and hat of the same material.

Miss Katharine Smith wore a graceful dancing gown, of pale green, with shades of rose color. Miss Nellie Hood, who was one of the prettiest of the debutantes present, her gown of rose champagne draped with tulle chiffon. Miss

Mal Horine wore a black velvet gown, the corsage of cream lace and chiffon, and a small black velvet and silver lace hat.

OTHER GOWNS.

Miss Lucile Knapp wore an American Beauty velvet gown, the bodice of brown and gold lace, with a black picture hat. Miss Jessie McKee was gown in leather-colored crepe. Miss Margaret Grant's tea-dance gown combined white silk with Dutch blue, the bodice confined at the waist with a white silk cord, and the only trimming was of rhinestone buttons. Her hat was black velvet and gold lace.

HANDSOME MATRONS.

Mrs. J. H. Nunnally wore a becoming gown, combining sand color with brown, and her close-fitting hat was in the same shades. Mrs. Charles Daniels was gown in black velvet and black hat. Mrs. William Westmoreland wore a black velvet gown, and a silver hat, trimmed with roses in pastel shades. Mrs. Laurie Davis Anderson was gown in black tulle and champagne, and her black picture hat was trimmed with white plumes.

Mrs. Thomas R. Himmig's gown was one of the prettiest of the season's models in dark brown, combining chiffon and ribbon over champagne.

Mrs. John M. Sloan wore a tulle and champagne, the corsage of lace and white, and her black picture hat was trimmed with white plumes.

MISS BALLETTER.

Miss Madeline Balletter, one of the most popular in that gay set of the "Tulane belle" and "beauty" was the hostess at a dancing party at the Georgian Terrace Friday evening. She was as fresh and charming as the first time she was seen.

During the evening, Miss Ethel Moulton and Mr. Robert Bell danced the Gavotte in the rose dining room. The guests, and their refreshments were served in the rose dining room. The chaperone party included Mr. George B. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rhodes and Doctor and Mrs. James Crawford. Mrs. Rhodes was handsome in a dancing gown of black and white. Mrs. Rhodes wore a black tulle gown sparkling with sequins.

THE INFORMAL DANCE.

The regular informal dance at the Terrace the same evening brought a bright party to the lounge, where dancing was enjoyed. Miss Moulton and Mr. Bell giving several feature dances.

A group of the debutantes present, wearing pretty demurely collected and smart hats, were Misses Isoline Campbell, Rosalie Davis, Helen McCarty, Mrs. Andrew Calhoun and Mrs. Harry English were very stylish figures in their smart gowns of black velvet. Mrs. Dudley Cowie wore black velvet, and a black picture hat. Mrs. Frederick Ponce wore a black velvet suit with black picture hat. Mrs. Elmer's pretty gown was in brown chiffon. Mrs. T. H. Paine wore a flowered yellow silk, made bouffant fashion. Mrs. Atchison wore a black chiffon gown painted in a design of flowers, and combined with satin. Mrs. John M. Sloan wore a black velvet gown trimmed in bands of black moiré silk, and Mrs. W. S. Ekin wore a black chiffon and net gown, made over champagne.

GOWNS WITH FLARE SKIRTS.

The flare skirts are here, and are being seen on models every day. One fashioned for a dancing party this week is quite lovely. It had pink as the prevailing color, the skirt was trimmed with flowers in their natural colors. The skirt is plain, flared at the bottom and finished with a cord, the bodice is defined at the waist, the little sleeves are about three inches long, and the whole is most picturesque in effect.

An afternoon gown of taupe gray satin, carried out the same fashion in a skirt, and the corsage was a touch of coral color, giving it a dash of color.

The dressiest of evening gowns for a brunette beauty to be worn during the holidays is of white champagne, with flowers applied directly to the fabric. The dress is given a dash of color of violets and a touch of blue at intervals, producing an effect at once chic.

The dressiest of sapphire blue as an afternoon gown is seen in a white champagne gown, veiled in blue chiffon, with a trimming of blue and gold embroidery.

Judge Nash Broyles Elected Head of Chi Phi Association

Nearly one hundred guests were present last night at the annual banquet of the Chi Phi Alumni association, which was held at the Georgian Terrace hotel.

The occasion was voted one of the most enjoyable in the history of the association, for every effort had been made to make it a lively and entertaining event. The menu was all that could be desired, and practical jokes, fraternity songs and witty speeches made time pass away quickly.

Especially beautiful were the decorations provided for the country beefsteak dinner, which was the form the banquet took this year.

Morning glory vines hung from the ceiling and festooned the columns of the banquet room. Small shades of corn were placed in every corner and some were on the table. Pumpkins and potatoes were also scattered here and there, and the softening glow of the shaded lights produced a most pleasing effect.

After the balloting during the business session it was announced that Judge Nash H. Broyles, of the Georgia court of appeals, was elected president of the association; Dr. Joseph D. Oberman, chairman of the executive board; and J. W. Connally, chairman of the membership committee.

The highest waterfall in the world is the Chocoma cascade in the Yosemite, which is 2,842 feet high.

The Charm of the New Coiffure

THE general tendency of the season is toward the high coiffure, and in this style of dressing, the hair is waved profusely and drawn back and upward, while the fringe lends a softening effect.

HERE the hair is softly waved and the back hair is formed into a roll, with the ends tucked under, so that no knot is visible. This style gives an excellent chance to wear the various shaped combs that are so much in vogue this season.

HERE the line from the crown of the head to the point of the chin is emphasized by a high coiled knot. The hair is parted on the side and taken back. This is a simple but very effective style for evening wear.

THE desirable height to the coiffure is gained by drawing the hair over a little cap of wired net. The ears are partly covered and the hair looser about the face, for to the average woman the tight coiffure is very trying.

BROCADED white velvet and white chiffon, set off with the black fur from the pelt of the South American monkey. Of such is this model constructed, and the bizarre effect of the barbaric ornament only heightens the picturesque quality of this alluring costume. The evening wrap is a particularly charming one, in the coat style. The voluminous folds of the heavy velvet hang in interesting lines, and the fur binding and collar are the season's newest features. Milady isn't a bit superstitious, and to prove it, she gayly sticks a bit of the peacock's plumage in her hair, and holds it in place by a jeweled band.
